

Abstract

A sheath for delivering and/or retrieving an embolic protection filtering devices. The sheath may include a proximal portion and a distal portion. The distal portion may be expandable and may include a bulbous member or region. Additionally, the sheath 5 may include structural support in a number of different forms.